

“THE GREEN VELVET CHRISTMAS DRESS” BOOK-SIGNING TEAS ... a time with the author in her home

WHEN: Saturday, November 23rd & Saturday, December 7th 3:00 to 5:30 p.m.

You are welcome to come and go as you'd like from the tea... The original artwork of Janelle Kujath—the illustrator for the book—will be available for viewing. At about 4:30 p.m., Melea will join you for a cup of tea, share about the writing of the book, and we will read some of The Green Velvet Christmas Dress, together!

WHERE: The Tea will be held in Melea's home in Altadena, CA

INFORMATION: Tickets are $20.00* includes a signed book & red velvet cupcakes & tea

Purchase a tickets at <http://rightsideupstories.com/shop/> (directions will be emailed to you)

Also available for purchase at the Tea: Emma's Strawberry Jam, green velvet bookmarks designed and made by Melinda Jernigan (MP Designs), green velvet-like book sleeves, and gift bags, tissue & tags

*We encourage early purchasing of tickets as we are limited due to the capacity of the author's home

From the inside book cover of “The Green
Velvet
Christmas
Dress”

What if our life's legacy was narrowed down to a piece of cloth with a few embroidered lines left behind for others to find? What would you read about my story, and what would I read about yours?

The Green Velvet Christmas Dress is the story of a handmade dress that passes through the lives and hands of more than six different women, each living her story generations from one another. Woven into this storytelling is the appealing hope of Christmas that welcomes all of us to anticipate, reflect, and remember.

Step inside and find your place in the story of The Green Velvet Christmas Dress...